NEW NATIONAL EAA WEBSITE

Last week, EAA launched its newly restructured flagship website, www.EAA.org, bringing together its family of websites under a single banner, with faster, state-of-the-art navigation, integration with mobile devices, and a bold new look. "EAA's main website has served us very well for nearly a decade, but EAA members and other aviation enthusiasts require digital and web services that meet today's technology," said Rick Larsen, EAA's vice president of marketing.

This writer tested it on May 3rd and found that a number of features do not work or do not work well. For one, the Calendar has not been fixed up properly, almost like what happened to the U.S. Government health care Website. EAA was contacted and said that their "IT people will be fixing it in a couple weeks." It seems that the hundreds of old links to events on the former Website do not currently work. Also, if you want to add an event, that feature does not work either. Also, it is very difficult to locate an event, unlike the "old" Website. EAA member services has to be contacted by phone or e-mail to enter a new event. The "new" Website also seems much more confusing than the "old" one.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Listings on the "Upcoming Events" pages are often revised. Check the Calendar on the EAA 172 Website for any changes.
